

captodative effect

Effect on the stability of a carbon-centred radical determined by the combined action of a captor (electron withdrawing) and a dative (electron releasing) substituent, both attached to the radical centre. The term is also used for certain unsaturated compounds.

1994, 66, 1092